Joshua C. C. Chan (Purdue University) will hold a one-day course on September 7 2022. This is a free lecture aimed at young researchers who have registered for the main conference. While young researchers have priority in admission, the lecture is open to everyone.

In this workshop, we honor Herman van Dijk for his contributions to Bayesian econometrics by organizing a special session. Papers presented at the conference may be submitted for publication in a special issue of Studies in Nonlinear Dynamics and Econometrics in honor of Herman K. van Dijk (see the “Call for Papers”).

You are invited to submit a paper for the contributed paper sessions as well as the poster sessions. We welcome submissions from all fields of Bayesian econometrics (macro, micro and financial), as well as papers on statistical methodology, machine learning and computing. Ph.D. students and researchers who received their Ph.D. after August 2017 may apply for a special “young researchers” session. Researchers selected for this session will receive a travel support grant of up to EUR 500. Interested candidates must attach a CV with their submission.

Please submit a full working paper or an extended abstract to esobe2022@plus.ac.at by April 30 2022. Please enter “Submission” in the subject line and include your contact information in the email. If you would like to be considered for the young researchers session, please indicate this in your submission. We will notify the authors of accepted papers by late May 2022. Registrations will open in early June 2022.

Our aim is to hold the conference as an in-person event. If epidemiological conditions deteriorate, we might have to move to an online format on short notice. Up-to-date information on the conference format, travel and accommodation can be found on the ESOBE 2022 website: bit.ly/esobe2022.
